

Historic House of the Year 2020

210 Lees Hill Road

210 Lees Hill Road is an historical structure dating back to around 1780. It is a traditional two-story, farmhouse with modest architectural details, simple masses, porches and supporting outbuildings. The present owners, Doug and Meghan Falduto have done a fantastic job of maintaining the modest integrity of the house, garage and small barn on the property with the use period correct details, use of properly scales materials and windows and modest additions that supplement the original scale, massing and architectural details of the farmhouse. The sensitivity to the design decisions allows this home to remain a meaningful contribution to streetscape in the Logansville Historic District.
